My oldest daughter acquired a bankrupt company which was making illuminated signs for Fast Food companies and converted it into a successful company. She gave me a tour of her company and I was impressed with the number of new orders her company was receiving. This was a strong indication of the active growth of Fast Food Franchises in the global economy. I decided to write this book about how to acquire franchises from fast food chains and how to operate them at a profit. By searching the Internet I found out an Investor-Operator, by spending from $10,000 to $100,000 or more, could acquire a FFF (fast food franchise) and operate it as a successful small business in a short period of time. I also realized that if you did not have the capital available to acquire the FFF, that you could use my Options Trading Software to start with $2000 capital and build up your investment capital to the amount needed to acquire the Franchise you wanted to buy. This book examines several different fast food franchises you might acquire and operate as a successful small business.

By foregrounding a first-person perspective, this text enacts and explores self-reflection as a mode of inquiry in educational research and highlights the centrality of the individual researcher in the construction of knowledge. Engaging in particular with the work of Thomas Merton through a dialogical approach to his writings, Self and Wisdom in Arts-Based Contemplative Inquiry in Education offers rich examples of personal engagement with text and art to illustrate the pervasive influence of the personal in reflective, narrative, and aesthetic forms of inquiry. Chapters consider methodological and philosophical implications of self-study and contemplative research in educational contexts, and show how dialogic approaches can enrich empirical forms of inquiry, and inform pedagogical practice. In its embrace of a contemplative voice within an academic treatise, the text offers a rich example of arts-based contemplative inquiry. This unique text will be of interest to postgraduate scholars, researchers, and academics working in the fields of educational philosophy, arts-based and qualitative research methodologies and Merton studies.

Almost nothing is known about Louis Charles, whose abandoned handwritten manuscripts were found discovered by Sidewalk Labs in an ornate jewelry box. None of the five manuscripts were dated, but they appear to be late 19th or early 20th century. In the first of these newly discovered classics, a little boy named Aaron travels through a tree in a nonsense fantasy in the style of The Wizard of Oz, Alice in Wonderland, and The Phantom Tollbooth. His dreams and wonders take him through a magical land of creatures - Feathers, Shells, Fins, and others - as he seeks out the dread Magistrate, who seems to be the keeper of the land.

Antonio West: was an American boy who grew up in a low to middle class working family in south Florida during the early 70's. He was just another skinny kid who did not fair well in school, dealing with a learning disability which made him the odd one out. Constantly told that he was not smart enough, just because he viewed the world differently then his peers (but somehow graduated with an Electrical Engineering degree). He watched as his parents went through personal and financial hardship, and was raised in a dysfunctional family. With less than $10 in the bank when he graduated from college, Antonio West went from Zero to $1,000,000 dollars of net worth in fourteen years. Antonio's journey took him from Ohio to Florida all the way across the country to California (from East to West coast), with a stint in Texas along the way. He had many jobs and professions including the owner of a computer company; but his heart was beating for one thing which seemed impossible to do, that was to become an artist and musician for a living. For everyone in our world loves the arts, but very few of us can live off the money made doing so. But Antonio found a way to remove the money from his pursuit of music, by setting a goal to become a millionaire and retire from the professional world by age 38. This is a story of life death and the human desire to persevere, not about some get rich quick scheme or sudden new found fortune. Through hard
