Francis and Leo

This text is intended for a first course in introductory financial accounting. It was updated to reflect current International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). For example, it reflects the recent change in IAS38, para. 98, allowing the use of multiple methods in amortizing intangible assets. It focuses on core Introductory Financial Accounting topics that match pre-requisite requirements for students advancing to Intermediate Financial Accounting. Excluded are advanced topics that are covered in Intermediate Financial Accounting, such as leases and bond amortization. The text takes a corporate approach (vs. beginning with a sole proprietorship emphasis and then converting to a corporate approach); this consistency throughout the book reduces confusion for the introductory student. The book covers all essential topics: the accounting cycle, merchandising, assigning costs to inventory, cash and receivables, property, plant and equipment, debt financing, equity financing, statement of cash flows, financial statement analysis, and proprietorships and partnerships. Additionally, this version of the open text is supported by Lyryx Learning, offering at an affordable price editorial services to develop and adapt the content, formative online assessment, course supplements, and daily support to both the students and instructors.

The solution is shown on page 239. Rest of the book is a step-by-step logical progression to the solution. Why? Last century has seen many crisis unfold, but the learning from them had not been applied to make our system, safer and secured. According to the author, the prevailing Financial Crisis resulted from a poor quality of information, running the global financial system. The author uses the 'information asymmetry' and 'information lifecycle' to put forth his argument. As this book extracts learning from this crisis, it explains how financial sector and other businesses can apply the concept of 'High Quality of Information' to run a 'crisis-proof- business. In this book, the author constructs the global financial architecture, that can resist crises in future. So, are we more wiser, living through the current crisis? What can the non-financial sector learn from this crisis? Make an assessment for yourself, using the C(X)O checklist at the end of the book.

"On the road to self-actualization" features tales that will inspire you to fulfil your dream. Its intent is to help people anticipate conflicts which life introduces when they seek to fulfil their dreams. It sheds light on the making of mid-life crisis and how to manage it. Set in Nigeria, it mirrors struggles between dreams, ambitions and destiny and the winning psyche. The tales will challenge you to discover and harness your endowments - the gifts for which you have passions. But they also disabuse people who carry on with life in despair. Unfortunately, a lot of people tend to interpret their condition based on some superstition. Doing so, they ignore the need or fail to reinvent themselves. Consequently, they fail to make a success of life. Getting to grips with forces that shape outcome of life - the way Ike did in the tales - is critical for success. Life's issues are a decisive influence in the tale. On occasion life manifests its harsh realities - defying reason and unleashing ordeals on its victims. Helplessly mankind has had to live with an uncritical but rational mind that life's phenomena encompass vicissitudes. Solving all of life's questions is not beyond the realms of possibility. But finding appropriate responses to dictates of life intriguingly belongs in the spiritual realm - some would say. That way life continues to take a toll on its victims. From struggles to quit the rat race to manoeuvres to know what the future holds in store, life holds sway still. People who make a success story applaud life for its fairness, while the unfortunates bemoan that life is unfair to them. Yet everyone learns the lessons of life in the school of experience. The unpalatable truth is that human desires - usually seen in people's lofty dreams and ambitions - and the realities of life are often diametrically opposed. This fact dawns when somebody's chickens come home to roost as is evident in Ike's experience.

Real Estate & Wealth

In the early part of my life, having read many books in favour of Ghosts and Spectral Appearances, the recollection remained so strong in my mind, that, for years after, the dread of phantoms bore irresistible sway. This dread continued till about my twenty-third year, when the following simple affair fully convinced me, how necessary it was thoroughly to investigate every thing that tended to supernatural agency, lest idle fear should gain a total ascendancy over my mind. About this period, I had apartments in a large old-fashioned country mansion. From my bed-chamber was a secret door leading to a private staircase, which communicated with some of the lower rooms. This door was fastened both within and without; consequently all fear of intrusion from that quarter was entirely removed. However, at times, I could not help ruminating on the malpractices that might have been committed by evil-disposed persons, through this communication; and "busy meddling fancy" was fertile in conjuring up imaginary horrors.
