Written by experienced corporate attorneys, Stockholders Agreements Line by Line provides a practical approach to understanding the issues involved in drafting and negotiating a stockholders agreement. Participants in a closely-held corporation often use a stockholders agreement to establish an understanding among themselves and the corporation as to the corporations governance, special approval rights, information and access rights, transfer rights and restrictions, and rights to participate in future capital raises and sale transactions. This book analyzes a sample agreement from the perspective of each of the parties involved a control investor, a co-investor, a lender, and management. The authors offer guidance on negotiating positions commonly taken by the different parties to the agreement and address the remedies that each party might seek to protect its rights. Stockholders Agreements Line by Line is a valuable resource for anyone who has ever negotiated a stockholders agreement, as well as for any party who is about to enter into such an agreement. This book contains a CD-Rom that features the PDF and Word versions of the final text of the book, which enables readers to manipulate the contract.

Legal research is a fundamental skill for all law students and attorneys. Regardless of practice area or work venue, knowledge of the sources and processes of legal research underpins the legal professional's work. Academic law librarians, as research experts, are uniquely qualified to teach legal research. Whether participating in the mandatory, first-year law school curriculum or offering advanced or specialized legal research instruction, law librarians have the up-to-date knowledge, the broad view of the field, and the expertise to provide the best legal research instruction possible. This collection offers both theoretical and practical guidance on legal research education from the perspectives of the law librarian. Containing well-reasoned, analytical articles on the topic, the volume explains and supports the law librarian's role in legal research instruction. The contributors to this book, all experts in teaching legal research, challenge academic law librarians to seize their instructional role in the legal academy. This book was based on a special issue of Legal Reference Services Quarterly.

Prosecuting is an essential manual for all those involved in the preparation and conduct of a criminal trial whether by jury or judge alone. Authored by Ray Gibson, a leading criminal barrister and former Crown Prosecutor for the State of Victoria, Prosecuting draws on his detailed knowledge and skills gained in the prosecution of criminal trials (including cases of murder, sexual offences, fraud, arson, kidnapping and serious drug trafficking) to deliver this compelling publication. This book provides invaluable guidance on how counsel should go about their task, from initial reading of the brief to the final address and sentencing hearing. Prosecuting is designed to assist criminal law practitioners, prosecuting bodies, police, legal aid and courts involved in the criminal trial process in all Australian states and territories. This book will be equally of interest for those who may be experienced in the conducting of a contested criminal case, be it a trial or a summary hearing, and want to read another's perspective, or, those who have never prosecuted and want to find out how it is done.
