The Life and Crimes of Harry Lavender

Cambridge Mathematics 2 Unit Year 12 develops theory for the Mathematics 2 Unit Year 12 syllabus both thoroughly and logically through clear explanations. It spans the full range of students' abilities with a large number of questions that are carefully graded and range from quite easy to more demanding. They will provide sufficient work for students of every ability taking the course. The gradual changes of emphasis in HSC examinations over the last ten years have been carefully addressed by the authors. The authors also encourage mathematical imagination through careful exposition and interesting questions, and by relating the various topics. Chapters are systematically divided into manageable sections which consist of a substantial exercise preceded by theory and worked examples. The exercises are then divided into three groups: Group 1 for more straightforward algorithms, Group 2 for harder algorithms and Group 3 for problems that link to other topics.

Revise HSC Legal Studies in a Month

The Legal Studies series is an activity learning resource which is based on the current NSW Board of Studies, Teaching and Educational Standards Legal Studies Preliminary (Year 11) syllabus (2009). It is also suitable for students in other Australian states undertaking a Legal Studies introductory course. It is anticipated that students will have prior knowledge of the topics addressed in this two-book series. The activities in the books are based on the textbooks that the students use for legal studies at this level. By engaging actively with the information presented in their textbooks the students will gain a deeper understanding of the subject matter and extend their knowledge and skills of the legal system.

Introducing Economics

This ground-breaking anthology collects poems written by Australian poets who are migrants, their children, and refugees of Asian heritage, spanning work that covers over three decades of writing. Inclusive of hitherto marginalised voices, these poems explore the hyphenated and variegated ways of being Asian Australian, and demonstrate how the different origins and traditions transplanted from Asia have generated new and different ways of being Australian. This anthology highlights the complexity of Asian Australian interactions between cultures and languages, and is a landmark in a rich, diversely-textured and evolving story. Timely and proactive this anthology fills existing cultural gaps in poetic expressions of home, travel, diaspora, identity, myth, empire and language.

Over the last 25 years, cognitive load theory has become one of the world's leading theories of instructional design. It is heavily researched by many educational and psychological researchers and is familiar to most practicing instructional designers, especially designers using computer and related technologies. The theory can be divided into two aspects that closely inter-relate and influence each other: human cognitive architecture and the instructional designs and prescriptions that flow from that architecture. The cognitive architecture is based on biological evolution. The resulting description of human cognitive architecture is novel and accordingly, the instructional designs that flow from the architecture also are novel. All instructional procedures are routinely tested using randomized, controlled experiments. Roughly 1/3 of the book will be devoted to cognitive architecture and its evolutionary base with 2/3 devoted to the instructional implications that follow, including technology-based instruction. Researchers, teachers and instructional designers need the book because of the explosion of interest in cognitive load theory over the last few years. The theory is represented in countless journal articles but a detailed, modern overview presenting the theory and its implications in one location is not available.

Nothing will ever be as easy as your school years,' well-meaning adults told her, but I knew for my daughter, and for many kids who have struggled as square pegs trying to make themselves round, this was dead wrong. When Lucy Clark's daughter graduated from school a 'failure', she started asking questions about the way we measure success. Why is there so much pressure on kids today? Where does it come from? Most importantly, as we seem to be in the grip of an epidemic of anxiety, how can we reduce that pressure? Beautiful Failures explores, through personal experience and journalistic investigation, a broken education system that fails too many kids and puts terrible pressure on all kids, including those who 'succeed'. It challenges accepted wisdoms about schooling, calls on parents to examine their own expectations, and questions the purpose of education, and indeed the purpose of childhood.
